GUESTS OF HONOR: JACK AND RACHEL GROSS

Jack and Rachel are world travelers who moved to Monsey 12 years ago and have been davening at Bais Torah ever since their first day here. Jack, one of six siblings, was born and raised on the Upper West Side of Manhattan, where his parents settled after coming from Romania and Hungary. Rachel, whose family is originally from Morocco, is one of 11 children and was born and raised in Israel.

The Grosses have been married 23 years and have two children, Meytal and Etai. Meytal made aliyah this past summer and is continuing her education in the Tel Aviv area. Etai follows his mother's footsteps as a member of the IDF and serves as a sergeant in the Duchifat battalion in the K'fir Brigade in Ramallah.

Jack served as Gabbai for seven years and is currently vice president of Bais Torah, a position he has held for the past four years. Rachel has worked on numerous committees for the shul and is well-known for her many talents and the creative ways she beautifies the shul and many of its events.

GUEST SPEAKER: RABBI YAAKOV SALOMON, C.S.W.

Rabbi Yaakov Salomon is a noted psychotherapist in private practice in Brooklyn, New York for over 25 years. He is a senior lecturer and the creative director of Aish Hatorah's Discovery Productions. He is also an editor and author for the Artsroll Publishing Series and is a member of the kollel of Yeshiva Torah Vodaath.

Rabbi Salomon is co-author, with Rabbi Noah Weinberg, of the best selling book "What the Angel Taught You; Seven Keys to Life Fulfillment," (Mesorah), and is also the co-producer of the highly-acclaimed films "Inspired," and "Inspired Too; Kiruv Across America." His most recent book is "Something to Think About; Extraordinary Reflections About Ordinary Events." (Mesorah)

Rabbi Salomon is a featured writer on Aish.com, the world's leading Jewish educational website. He also writes and produces a weekly video blog, Salomon Says, for the site. His speaking, writing and musical talents have delighted audiences from Harvard to Broadway and everything in between. Rabbi Salomon shares his life with his wife, Temmy, and their unpredictable family.
